Ubaldo Schiavi

Born in Rome in 1966, bass master Ubaldo is the son of artists. His mother sang with "Le voci blu" and "La Grande Famiglia", while his father was a singer/ songwriter who released 2 albums and 4 singles.

At 9 years old, Ubaldo started studying classical guitar, pursuing later piano and then bass. In 1985 he graduated as a sound engineer at the State Institute of Cinema and Television and worked as a sound engineer for several major Italian artists including Paola Turci, Bungaro, Gino Paoli, Vox Populi, M° Beppe Vessicchio as well as Derek

Wilson, M° Adriano Pennino, Vittorio Riva and Massimo Berni, among others. He played bass for reggae band Evolution time, 80MHz and Aristofunky.

He followed up his first EP "The early records" with the 11-track CD "LEVEL 1: BEGINNER". The compositions are adorable and technically superior. These songs pay reverence to the age of modern jazz, with traces of Lee Ritenour and The Crusaders. Ubaldo though gives pop sense to his materials, nurtured from years of doing covers in the bar scene. Listen to two of his most appealing pieces "Mister G" and "Dream Holiday".
